WSSC Promotes Amnesty, Water Tower Repair Plans

by Diane Oberg

This house at 241 Lastner Lane, adjacent to the water tower, was recently purchased by WSSC.

Representatives of WSSC Water (WSSC), the agency that provides water and sewer services to Montgomery and Prince George's counties, met with the Greenbelt City Council on June 21 to discuss the agency's Get Current amnesty program and refurbishment of the water tower on Lastner Lane. After the worksession, council briefly discussed potential issues with the July 1 legalization of recreational marijuana.

Get Current

The amnesty program is important because on July 5, WSSC will significantly increase the number of customers eligible to have their service disconnected. Monica Marquina, WSSC government affairs manager, said the agency wants to get customers who are behind on their bills onto a payment plan. The program only applies, however, to properties with individual water meters. WSSC defines a residential customer as one with an individual water meter. Customers in condominiums, apartments and other housing types with master meters are not eligible.

Marquina said that the current threshold for disconnection is an unpaid balance of $1,000. Once the Get Current program ends, that threshold will be reduced. The Get Current program has recently been extended through July 31.

According to the WSSC website eligible residential customers

Costa Rica Travelers Spot Surprising Patch of Home

by Patrick Gleason

A familiar patch was spotted on the door of a small roadside restaurant in Guanacaste Province, Costa Rica.

Guanacaste Province, Costa Rica, is over 3,000 miles from Greenbelt. Located there is Café & Macadamia, a roadside restaurant and gift shop, where the scent of cinnamon and coffee mingle in the warm morning air to arrest your senses. After passing to the outdoor seating area, the panorama of Lake Arenal, a vast body of water as impressive as the volcano of the same name, halts your eyes. Cats lounge in the al fresco setting – drinking in the verdant hills enhanced by the Central American rainy season – as locals and tourists alike enjoy the sweet pastries and rich brews on a late June morning. Wind turbines stand sentry on the hills

Natolis Sell Generous Joe's; Remembering Golden Start

by Erica Johns

This is part one of a three-part series.

The orange booths in Generous Joe's Deli were busy with families, couples, teens and kids at lunchtime on a recent Tuesday, eating pizza, sandwiches and Italian hoagies. The air was filled with chatter, laughter and music; staff talking with customers and each other; and customers' congratulations to longtime manager and new owner Aaron Mengel. Owner Joe Natoli, Jr. retired in June 2023, transferring to Mengel the restaurant first opened in 1966 by Joe Jr.'s parents, Joe Sr. "Golden Joe" and Barbara Natoli.

Family Affair Begins

The Natoli family moved from D.C. to Greenbelt in the 1960s. The Fill Your Belly Deli at 107 Centerway has been a community gathering place and a family affair since the beginning, with "family" including the Natolis, staff and the Greenbelt community. When Golden, wife Barbara and other family members opened the Greenbelt Carry-Out, it was only as wide as the current kitchen and counter, with seating for just 12 (possible because the counter was further back than it

WMATA, ARPA and Auditors Plus Council's State Priorities

by Cathie Meetre

June 20's Greenbelt City Council meeting focused on the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority's (WMATA) "visionary" Better Bus Network which had been the subject of an earlier council worksession. Assistant Director of Planning Jaime Fearer interacted with council to flesh out a letter to be sent to WMATA on the city's position. The transit plan, as yet unfunded, proposes a significant expansion in bus provision in WMATA's service area and can be seen at wmata.com/initiatives/plans/Better-Bus/Discover-the-Network.cfm.

Reiterating WMATA's intentions, Fearer stated that a focus of the plan was to offer a level of coverage and frequency that would result in at least one bus per half hour on all routes on- and off-peak and to start routes earlier in the day. She emphasized that this was a proposal and not imminently to be implemented.

Changes Affecting Greenbelt

Some councilmembers had invested time in studying the maps to identify the differences between today's bus coverage and the proposal. Councilmember Silke Pope noted that whereas there is now a bus that connects Lakeside Drive, Lakecrest Drive, University Square and Westway directly with New Carrollton Metro Station, under the new plan riders would apparently need

Letters to the Editor

Thoughts on July 4th

The June 29 article about the origins of the real Texas Juneteenth pointed to June 19, 1865. It was then, explains the article, that a Union general announced that all the enslaved Blacks in Texas were free. Commemorations were not so much festive as religious, solemn, dignified and serious.

I want to add to the article by filling in a gap left by the comment: “July 4th was just a day on the calendar.”

It was the founding of the USA in 1776 that made Juneteenth possible. A Bible verse quotes Jesus as saying: “The Truth will set you free.” Our founding documents planted many truth-seeds for future harvesting, including: “All men are created equal...,” “governments should rule by the consent of the governed” and “taxation without representation is tyranny.”

It was the USA, a government “of the people, by the people, and for the people,” that gave birth not only to Juneteenth, but also to the Dred Scott decision, to MLK’s “I have a dream” speech, and to Rosa Park’s stand on public transportation, to name only a few.

Humility is also useful. Haven’t all nations had to rid themselves of slavery? And who wants to live where life is not hard because your neighbors are required to make it easy for you. I would rather work with my unique set of God-given talents for the common good.

God bless America.
Michael Burchick

Crime Awareness

If I had been at the Post Office a split second earlier today, I would have witnessed someone breaking a car window and stealing someone’s valuables while the owner of the car had just stepped away from their car, or I might have been a victim of this crime myself. It happened around 3 p.m. when there were plenty of other people around, and certainly not a time I tend to think a brazen crime would occur. A similar crime happened about six months ago plus there have been too many carjackings in the area recently.

Please, please, please lock your cars, be mindful of what/who is around and do not leave anything of value in sight.

Differing on Bag Bill

Green ACES and the Greenbelt Green Team wrote the content of the Bag ordinance which the city converted into a legal format. We are the ones to blame – or thank – depending on your viewpoint. We “lifted a lot of language for Ordinance 1389 directly from” many different bills as appropriate. Councilmember Kristen Weaver is the liaison to Greenbelt’s Green ACES/Green Team and has been very helpful in that role, but she did not draft the ordinance.

In his letter last week, Alexander Zajac states that local businesses will need to “retain legal counsel to figure out how they can comply with these competing bills.” We realize that we have a lot of work to do over the coming months to educate Greenbelt residents and the business community before the ordinance goes into effect on January 1, 2024, as well as continuing education efforts afterwards. We will be here to answer any questions, and we will not charge for this service! By the way, there is no penalty for the first infraction. Businesses will be told what needs to be done to comply with the ordinance.

We designed the ordinance to minimize a financial burden on Greenbelt businesses by allowing businesses to keep the 10 cents they collect for each paper bag provided; the city does not profit from this collection.

Council did not “rush forward” with this ordinance. Green ACES, Greenbelt Green Team (along with our Zero Waste Circle) and our many supporters,

Past Lives

Nora and Hae Sung, two deeply connected childhood friends, are wrested apart after Nora’s family emigrates from South Korea. Two decades later, they are reunited in New York for one fateful week as they confront notions of destiny, love and the choices that make a life. “It’s a film full of quiet magic; of the power of words not spoken, and the enduring strength of love,” said critic Moira MacDonald of the Seattle Times.

Asteroid City

In this Wes Anderson film, the itinerary of a Junior Stargazer/Space Cadet convention (organized to bring together students and parents from across the country for fellowship and scholarly competition) is spectacularly disrupted by world-changing events. Starring Jason Schwartzman, Scarlett Johansson, Tom Hanks, Jeffrey Wright, Tilda Swinton and Bryan Cranston. Said critic Katie Walsh of the Tribune News Service, “Anderson hasn’t just delivered his best film in years, he’s also managed to capture the zeitgeist in his own unique way.”

Ziggy Stardust and the Spiders from Mars

Documentarian D.A. Pennebaker focuses his lens on a 1973 concert by David Bowie, who performs under the moniker Ziggy Stardust with his glam-rock backing band, the Spiders From Mars. While some backstage footage of the theatrical singer-songwriter is featured, the majority of the film is devoted to the music played onstage, which includes hits, album cuts and covers of Rolling Stones and Velvet Underground songs. Bowie also shocks fans by announcing his intention to drop the Stardust persona.

Lilo & Stitch

A tale of a young girl’s close encounter with the galaxy’s most-wanted extraterrestrial. Lilo is a lonely Hawaiian girl who adopts a small ugly “dog,” whom she names Stitch. Stitch would be the perfect pet if he weren’t in reality a genetic experiment who has escaped from an alien planet and crash-landed on Earth. Through her love, faith and unwavering belief in ohana, the Hawaiian concept of family, Lilo helps unlock Stitch’s heart and gives him the ability to care for someone else.

Obituaries

Sharon Walton

Sharon Walton

Sharon Walton was a beloved mother, Memaw, sister, aunt, cousin and friend, and it is with heavy hearts that her family announces her death on the afternoon of June 28, 2023, at her home.

Sharon Lee Walton was born on August 29, 1945, in Washington, D.C., to Henry “Blackie” Ogden and Harriett Natalie Watt. In 1956, her family moved to Greenbelt, where she grew up with her younger siblings, Diana, Tommy and Janice.

She graduated from High Point High School in 1964; one of her classmates described her as “the prettiest girl in Greenbelt” in her senior yearbook. It is no surprise that on her 21st birthday, she went on her first date with Landon “Lanny” Walton, who would eventually become the love of her life. They married in 1975 and together raised her daughter Tamara and son Todd.

A vivacious personality with a great sense of humor, Sharon was many wonderful things to many people. Still, she will always be fondly remembered as Mom, a mother figure to many. She will be forever missed by her children – Tamara and Todd and dog Marley (aka Mr. Bubs) – and surviving grandchildren –

Nicole and Olivia. She is also survived by all of her siblings, by her nieces Angel, Michelle, Mary Pat, Sharilyn and Melinda, and nephews Anthony and Michael.

One of the family’s few comforts with her passing is that she is hopefully reunited with her husband Lanny, her grandson Nick, her mother Natalie and several members of the family who have left this Earth. Rest in paradise, Memaw.

Sharon’s life will be celebrated on Sunday, July 9, 2023, from noon to 3 p.m. at Borgwardt Funeral Home, 4400 Powder Mill Road, Beltsville. A reception will follow at American Legion Post 66 on 9605 Old Laurel Bowie Road, Bowie.

Jeanne Rowland

Longtime Greenbelt resident Jeanne Schaeffer Rowland died peacefully at home on June 15, 2023. Adventurous, she held a smile in her voice and was always quick to laugh. Loved by all, she will be missed for her clever wit, her caring grace and her quiet strength. She was preceded in death by her husband of 64 years, William, and a son, David Charles. She leaves behind sons John and Bill Jr., six grandchildren (Candice, Darla, Luke, Matt, Mike and Rachel); and two great-grandchildren, Eliza and Mattie. Her resplendent life will be celebrated at a private gathering of her loving family, with interment beside her husband in Cheltenham Veterans Cemetery.

especially the Maryland chapter of the Sierra Club, have spent a lot of time researching the pros and cons of many such ordinances, both throughout Maryland and the entire country. We commend city council for passing Ordinance 1389, Bring Your Own Bag. Since the City of College Park and the City of Greenbelt passed bag ordinances prior to Prince George’s County passing its bill, we pioneers may have helped persuade the county to pass their bill.

to the right, completing the fairytale feel to a location as pure as the Costa Rican lifestyle of “pura vida,” which translates to “pure life” – a reminder to appreciate each moment. The phrase permeates daily life in this tropical locale more than the omnipotent humidity reminiscent of Maryland’s annual summer saturation.

Upon reentering the café from the patio, there is a wall decorated with patches from police departments around the world. Amid this eclectic collection is one representing Greenbelt’s very own. Hundreds of visitors pass this patch each day leaving us to wonder, how did this piece of our community land here? Can any readers claim credit for this patch’s presence so far from its home?

While eight Greenbelt travelers, including your present News Review writer, who recently returned from the Costa Rican journey, cannot answer this question, they can advocate for the adventure, hospitality and warmth any explorers will find upon visiting Costa Rica. The group consisted of Roosevelt alumni from the last four graduating classes as well as a rising senior and two chaperones, both lifelong Greenbelt residents. Education First, a global education company, coordinates trips like this eight-day tour of Costa Rica that included sights of stunning waterfalls and activities like white water rafting along the Río Sarapiquí. Though finding a bit of Greenbelt wasn’t part of the itinerary, anything is possible in the age of airplanes, where small discoveries prove the world is as vast as it is connected.

to change buses at Roosevelt Center. Councilmember Judith Davis also noted that Edmonston Road (near Dora Kennedy French Immersion School) would also not have service as it does now, though Fearer said that the service would instead run along Springhill Lane, Springhill Drive and Breezewood so that it avoided the congestion associated with school traffic while still serving the same neighborhood.

Coordination Needed

Davis was concerned there seemed to be duplication between routes now covered by the Regional Transportation Agency of Central Maryland (RTA) and the proposed map, citing the Greenbelt to Laurel connection. Fearer, however, thought that the map covered services as a whole in the area and that the inclusion of a route on the map didn’t mean WMATA would duplicate it but was to show services comprehensively.

Both Mayor Emmett Jordan, from the dais, and Bill Orleans, from the floor, urged regional level coordination, with Orleans noting that Four Cities and Maryland Municipal League groups should be involved. According to Orleans, the state supports Montgomery County’s transit system more generously than Prince George’s.

Orleans also suggested the city approach the Washington Suburban Transit Commission as part of a coordinated approach. Jordan said he’d favor urging limited 24-hour service on all routes, more focus on connections to the University of Maryland, College Park campus, and urged further consideration of regional connections, such as to BWI

Marshall Airport.

Fearer was asked to update the response letter, let council have a look at it and subsequently submit it to WMATA, copying to other interested parties, such as the RTA.

AskMeAboutARPA

Public Information Officer Chondria Andrews held something of a pep rally for the AskMeAboutARPA campaign. Scheduled for kickoff in July to run all summer, it aims to make Greenbelt residents and businesses more aware of opportunities for them funded by the $22M American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) allocation to the city – all of which must be designated for specific uses by December 31, 2024, and disbursed by December 31, 2026, with all projects completed.

Joe Jr. said of his father, “He loved people, talked to everybody and joked around a lot. He had a big personality, that’s why a lot of people remember him. His last 10 to 20 years [after retiring], he came down every day, hung out and talked to people.” Robert Wood wrote, “We put up with his outrageous sense of humor; he made us laugh all the time.” Charlene Shaffer Backstrom remembered all the times he gave her lottery numbers to play.

Barbara Natoli still lives in Greenbelt. Joe Jr. said she worked at the deli – Golden Joe’s – for a long time. “She really ran the kitchen, the real cook behind most of the work that got done, made sure things stayed on track. She was a hard-working lady and liked to cook. My dad liked the social part, he was in the front doing all the talking. She kept everything together in the kitchen.”

Golden’s 2011 obituary recalled childhood customers returning as adults, recounting his kindness to them as kids. Kevin McDermott wrote, “[Golden] always treated us kids with the same zest and appeal as his adult customers.” Mengel remembered growing up with Golden Joe’s as a place where you could go, know you’re safe and there was someone you can talk to and joke around with. He said, “If a kid came in and didn’t have money, Joe said, ‘don’t worry about it, go ahead and eat.’ That’s what Golden always did.” Anne Marie Moore Utterback remembered “going in as a 13-year-old kid with not enough money in my pocket to buy a cheese steak. Joe said, ‘I got it.’ I will never forget the compassion in his eyes and kindness. I was from a single mom household and was always hungry. Joe was the most giving human being ever.” Lynn Wells Davis wrote of Golden, “I know he used to call my mom in late at night on her way home from work and hand her a couple of subs, no charge. Great man.” Leslie Wright wrote, “He knew all us kids and always kept an eye out for us.”

Walter Webb recalled, “When [Golden] first took over that little hole in the wall next to the Twin Pines Savings & Loan office, he bought a soft ice cream server machine. It had a rather large piece of stainless steel, like a long rod with a hand lever on it. He was cleaning his new machine and laid out the parts on a towel on the counter, and some juvenile delinquent stole the dispenser lever. His new, expensive machine was now useless! Knowing that I was something of a ringleader among the juvenile delinquents, he asked me for help in locating the part. He was very gracious and made me feel important and sympathetic to his plight. He offered me a reward of some hoagies. The missing part magically reappeared the next day!”

Greenbelters A.J. Nuzzo, Jr., Kathy Reynolds and others organized a memorial bench installation at the Greenbelt War Memorial across from Joe’s, where the bench plaque includes: “Mentor to many – Friend to all.”

More Volunteers Are Needed For the Labor Day Festival

Volunteers are needed to help run this year's Labor Day Festival. The planning committee will meet on Tuesday, July 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Center, Room 114.

The Labor Day Festival is a high point in Greenbelt's year, as thousands of people come to enjoy the rides, entertainment and food booths and to watch the parade. The Festival is run by a committee of volunteers, who organize and plan all of the activities. Whatever one's skills are, the Festival committee could use help.

During the pandemic years the Labor Day Festival lost money, and so the committee is encouraging donations this year. The Festival Committee is a 501c3 nonprofit organization which is supported by donations and by sales at the Festival; the committee gets no direct financial support from the city. By becoming a donor or sponsor of the Festival, one can help support this community event. All donations received by Tuesday, August 8 will be acknowledged in the News Review pull-out. Donations at any level can be made through the website using PayPal.

For more information visit the Festival website at greenbeltlaborday.com or email greenbeltlaborday@gmail.com.

Who Should Be Greenbelt's 2023 Outstanding Citizen?

by Tom Jones

We're at the height of summer now, but in just nine weeks the Labor Day Festival will be here. Since 1973, the Festival has included a special Greenbelt tradition: designating the year's Outstanding Citizen. Starting exactly 50 years ago, Greenbelt each year celebrates one of its most generous volunteers at the Labor Day Festival and on a permanent plaque in the Community Center. The Outstanding Citizen is also Grand Marshal of the Labor Day Parade.

The Outstanding Citizen Committee needs you to identify someone deserving this honor. Nominees must be volunteers: elected officials and paid employees are not eligible. If you know someone whose volunteer efforts stand out in one or more community organizations, who shows concern for others and who demonstrates leadership, cooperation and enthusiasm, now is the time to submit your nomination. The nomination form is provided in this paper on page 6, although a letter is also acceptable. Nominations may be submitted until Monday, July 31 to Bob Zugby, Outstanding Citizen Committee, 94 Ridge Road, Greenbelt MD 20770, or to OutstandingCitizenGB@gmail.com.

Last year's Outstanding Citizen is Maggie Cahalan, co-founder of CHEARS (Chesapeake Education, Arts and Research Society), which promotes environmental projects that protect the health of all life in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed. Prior Outstanding Citizens have been involved in a wide variety of volunteer work, including supporting sports, scouting and senior citizen programs. Most importantly, Outstanding Citizens make Greenbelt a better place. Now is the time to recognize their contributions.

The Outstanding Citizen for 2023 will be announced during the Friday evening ceremony to start the Labor Day Festival. Local businesses have already set aside prizes for the winner, and local officials are ready to proclaim the accomplishments of one of our neighbors.

If you nominated someone in a prior year who was not chosen, don't be discouraged – try again. You may wish to include a deeper description of your nominee's volunteer experience, or letters of support from more people. The committee receives many excellent nominations each year, but can choose only one recipient. Submit your nominations now to ensure they're considered for this important community tradition.

Retrofit of Stormwater Pond At Ora Glen, Hanover Pkwy

by Stephanie Quinn

The Prince George's County Clean Water Partnership has begun a retrofit of the stormwater pond at the intersection of Ora Glen Drive and Hanover Parkway. The retrofit, scheduled to finish in March 2024, will allow the pond to better remove pollutants from storm runoff before releasing it into local waterways, according to a Clean Water Partnership construction notice. Construction will close the far-right lane of Hanover Parkway.

The county and the environmental infrastructure company Corvias entered a 30-year agreement to form the Clean Water Partnership in 2015, with the aim of designing, improving and maintaining stormwater infrastructure to meet federal requirements. The partnership has completed projects at the intersection of Greenbrook Drive and Hanover Parkway and at Eleanor Roosevelt High School.

CROP Walk 2023 again Raises Funds to Assist Locally, Needy

by Mary Moien

Each year Greenbelters and others throughout the country participate in CROP Hunger Walks. CROP stands for Communities Responding to Overcome Poverty. Funds raised are distributed by the ecumenical Church World Service. Greenbelt joins with Hyattsville and other northern Prince George's County areas in sponsoring a walk – this year in May at Lake Artemesia. Greenbelt Golden Age Club member Lyn Doyle, who has been involved with CROP since 1981, helped organize the Greenbelt area groups.

Approximately $40,000 was raised in the Greenbelt/Hyattsville area. At least three Greenbelt groups are traditionally represented: the Greenbelt Community Church, the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club and the Greenbelt Golden Age Club. According to Marty Folk and Naomi Littlefield, the Greenbelt Community Church led the pack with more than 50 walkers. Each of the groups made monetary contributions.

Part of the funds raised are used locally. Twenty-five percent of the donations will be sent to Help By Phone of Prince George's County, an organization that helps those with an urgent need for food or temporary assistance.

whose household income is below 150 percent of area median income will receive a 10 percent bill credit for payment in full of the delinquent amount, at which time WSSC will waive 100 percent of late payment charges and turn-on fees. Participants will receive a 5 percent bill credit for 50 percent payment of the delinquent amount and successful completion of a six-month payment plan. Upon completion of the payment plan, 100 percent of late payment charges and turn-on fees are waived. Residential customers above 150 percent of area median income and commercial and multi-unit residential accounts with master meters are eligible for the 100 percent waiver of late payment charges and turn-on fees.

Residents in arrears should call the number on their notices from WSSC, which will take them directly to representatives who can address their accounts. They will also try to connect eligible residents to federal/state/county assistance programs.

If customers experience unexpected changes in their bills, they should contact WSSC, which can investigate whether there are problems such as a pipe leak, a problem with a toilet or a malfunctioning meter.

Although customers with master meters are not eligible for the Get Current program, there is other assistance available, Marquina said. Such customers should go to WSSC.com/assistance for more information.

Marquina said that customers in Prince George’s County owe roughly $25 million in past-due bills. About 13,500 accounts are delinquent by more than $800. She said the agency has been cautioned by credit bureaus that failure to deal with the debt could result in downgrading of its credit rating, which would increase its cost to borrow funds for its infrastructure projects. She noted that unlike other utilities, such as Pepco, WSSC is a multi-county agency, not a business and it does not make a profit.

Water Tower

The other main topic of discussion was the planned work to refurbish the standpipe (water tower) at the top of Lastner Lane. The tower predates the city. Although it sits on city land, Director of Planning and Community Development Terri Hruby said that in 1936 the Resettlement Administration, the agency responsible for the Green Towns program, including the founding of Greenbelt, granted rights to WSSC to use the property in perpetuity for providing water to Greenbelt. Although the land under and around the water tower is recorded in land records as city property, the sub plat for Boxwood, she noted, shows WSSC as the controlling property owner.

WSSC has recently purchased 241 Lastner Lane, which is adjacent to the tower. Despite having been sent residents’ questions in advance, the representatives at the meeting had little information about the project. In her email response to the questions submitted, Marquina said that “The property will allow the construction of replacement piping and valves.”

Also in that email, Marquina said the standpipe was last refurbished in 1993; there are no issues with the ground settling or sinking under the standpipe; and there are no plans to explore replacing, rather than refurbishing the standpipe. She did not respond to a question about whether the WSSC driveway would be expanded.

At the meeting, the representatives were also unable to answer questions such as whether WSSC plans to demolish the house at 241 Lastner Lane and if so, when. However, Marquina said that purchasing a house for access to a standpipe is “not out of the ordinary.” Customer Advocate David Wilkins said they would take down the questions and get back to the city. As of July 3, the city had not received any response, according to City Clerk Bonita Anderson.

Other questions that were asked but not answered at the meeting included why this refurbishment required obtaining the house when previous refurbishments did not, whether WSSC will own the house in perpetuity and whether the city would be reimbursed for the loss of tax revenue that would otherwise have been paid on the property.

No zoning issues exist with the purchase as Hruby told council that as a public utility, WSSC’s use of the property is consistent with its current zoning.

Wilkins did agree that there should be a community meeting, probably in August.

Robert Goldberg-Strassler, co-president of the Boxwood Village Civic Association, asked about the impact of the standpipe refurbishment project on Boxwood Village and on Lastner Lane. He pointed out that the road was the main thoroughfare to Greenbelt Elementary School and for emergency response vehicles.

Jordan raised the issue of the longstanding dispute over changes WSSC wants to make to its commitments to GHI. The meters in GHI are very close to the houses, meaning that WSSC is responsible for maintaining the pipes all the way to the meter locations. WSSC would like to move the meters closer to the street and transfer the burden of maintaining large sections of pipe to GHI. Jordan noted that the city is very supportive of GHI, which does not want to take on responsibility for a lot of additional infrastructure.

Marquina said that an internal meeting is planned in the next few weeks to bring the new GHI general manager and others up to speed on this issue.

Marijuana

Councilmember Judith Davis reported that she had gotten a letter regarding potential problems after the state legalized recreational marijuana use. The writers were particularly concerned about problems with the smoke, particularly in multifamily housing and wanted a city ordinance. Davis asked what the city would do if someone lit up a joint in Roosevelt Center.

Jordan said that he was also concerned but did not see that there was much the city could do given that state law permits recreational use. In addition, he said the city cannot really regulate what happens on private property. He expressed frustration about the lack of information/guidance from the state government.

Councilmember Kristen Weaver pointed out that smoking cannabis will not be permitted in areas where smoking is prohibited. So, she said, the response to smoking cannabis in Roosevelt Center would be the same as what happens if someone lights a cigarette there. Davis, in an undertone, muttered “nothing.”

The law that went into effect July 1 prohibits smoking cannabis in public places, which is a civil offense subject to a $50 fine for a first offense and up to $150 fine for subsequent offenses.

Drive High, Get a DUI

The Greenbelt Police Department is reminding residents that while recreational cannabis is now legal in Maryland for adults over 21, impaired driving is not. Using cannabis before driving can impair judgment, slow reaction time and affect ability to drive safely. "Be the driver who uses responsibly," they advise.

Mosquito Tip of the Week

The end of June has brought some rain, and mosquitoes will use this chance to breed in any tiny source of stagnant water they can find. Mosquito breeding season is in full swing now, and the battle is on: Get to the mosquitoes in your backyard before they can get to you. Find and kill mosquito larvae before they become flying and biting adults. Inspect your garden again for all areas of standing water. Clean up and store away the garden tools and kids' toys, the buckets and the furniture. Check the plant pot saucers, the planting boxes and the dripping faucets. Make sure mosquitoes cannot breed in your rain water barrel. Remove standing water wherever you can, and apply Mosquito Bits and Mosquito Dunks to the areas where you can't remove the standing water. A little bit of preventative care will go a long way in fighting mosquitoes and making sure everyone including pets and neighbors can enjoy the outdoors, without the need to spray pesticides.

that in their most recent report in early June, Greenbelt CARES had spent $1.65M out of $1.8M allocated. Jordan anticipated that there would likely be a further injection of funds to this program in the near future.

Auditor Appointment

Gaymon requested that council accept the appointment of Mitchell Titus LLC as auditor at a budgeted $68K for the coming year. The three-year contract also has two option years. Gaymon described the award process, noting that one of the three contenders offered a price of almost half the others – which the evaluators thought unrealistic – and that Mitchell Titus was second in cost. She also commented that a factor in their choice was that the engagement partner for the firm (who would oversee the audits) had been associated with previous Greenbelt city audits and thus would be considerably faster getting up to speed.

On being asked about the impact of ARPA funds on the audit, Gaymon told council that the impact was significant because the ARPA funds triggered a Federal Single Audit requirement. Mitchell Titus was already familiar with the process for this requirement. The hire was approved.

MML Proposals

Each year, local jurisdictions submit legislative proposals to the Maryland Municipal League (MML), some of which the MML will promote to state legislators. Council discussed a number of alternatives and finally decided on three. Two related to single-use plastics (one about bags and the other, utensils like stirrers) because so many counties are already enacting this type of legislation.

The third, at the request of Gaymon, was for data on state property tax abatements to be delivered to municipalities at the same time it was delivered to homeowners and presented to municipalities in a form that was manipulable – like a spreadsheet – using tools like pivot tables to analyze it. Jordan noted ruefully that though he was completely in favor of the proposal, he didn't completely understand pivot tables, a response that struck a chord with his audience.

Pollinator Week

During the presentation to city Environmental Coordinator Kevin

Editorial Note:

Honey Bees in America

It was generally believed that there was no honeybee native to North America. The bees here now are the European honeybee (Apis mellifera) brought by colonists around 1622. A recent find, however, is a 14-million-year-old fossil bee, Apis nearctica (just one female worker), in Nevada which apparently dates from the mid-Miocene epoch. It is not known, however, when this species first appeared or when it became extinct.

Carpenter-Driscoll of a proclamation celebrating National Pollinator Week, Carpenter-Driscoll remarked that it had so far been a fairly good year for pollinators, though some rain would help. (This wish has since been granted.) Responding to a question from Councilmember Rodney Roberts, he said that there are now no honeybees in existence that were originally native to North America. Once there were, but they are extinct. (See box.)

Truck Parking Revisited

In a hardy-perennial, elusively-circular discussion on overnight truck parking, though some councilmembers expressed sympathy for truckers caught mid-trip and required by law to sleep, council once again struggled with the problem of parked trucks causing visibility hazards and pollution (running motors all night). They get ticketed one place, and move on, only to appear somewhere else in the city until ticketing catches up with them again. As Councilmember Kristen Weaver pointed out, the solution is to have somewhere for them to park – but nowhere was proposed.

In other city news, the Public Works Department is working on a five-year plan for conversion of equipment and vehicles to electric.

Barracudas Beat Marlins, Ready for Home Meet

by Iris Gaycken

A Greenbelt Barracuda races during the team's second meet against the Belair Swim and Racquet Club Barracudas.

Recently there has been more activity at the Greenbelt pool than normal – that would be the Greenbelt Barracudas. From 6-year-olds to 18-year-olds, they practice every morning in the frigid waters of the outdoor pool.

The Barracudas started off the season with a home meet against the West Arundel Ducks on June 17. Although they came away from the first two meets with losses, they brought it back in the third meet against the Montpelier Marlins on Saturday, where they won 323 to 203 with the help of over 80 swimmers.

Swim team in Greenbelt is like a family because of the range of ages. The older kids help out the younger kids with their strokes and are always encouraging. This creates a team spirit that is unique from other sports.

This coming Saturday there will be another home meet against the Russet Sharks, the team's fiercest competitor. In the past the meets against the Sharks have been consistently close, which often pushes swimmers to get personal bests. If passing by the pool on a Saturday morning, don't be shy, come cheer on the Barracudas.

"A Fall Into Redemption"

A memoir by longtime Greenbelt resident Tom Hibbs about his son Tyler's remarkable but short life. It's a memoir of compelling baseball stories and heartbreak, but ultimately of hope amidst terrible tragedy. Available at Amazon.

Summer Camp Session One Ends with Puppetry, Revelry

by Anna Bedford-Dillow

On June 30 the first two weeks of Greenbelt’s city summer camps came to an end. Session one went out with a grand finale that included two performances of Hidden Lands, an original musical written and directed by Performing Arts Coordinator Chris Cherry, and the showcasing of various projects and skills children had been working on for the previous two weeks.

Campers enroll in afternoon sessions that range from circus skills to pottery, dance and MakerSpace activities. Following the afternoon musical performance by the Creative Kids Camp, there were performances of student-choreographed dance routines and an array of balancing, juggling and stilt-walking skits from the circus skills cohort.

Greenbelt’s Honk! Situation band made a surprise entrance to lead a joyful parade from the stage to the art displays of pottery and crafts.

Plenty of applause, music, dancing, puppetry and revelry closed out the first camp session.
